

Light Up Their Lives!

They deserve safety and comfort

Proper lighting in adult care environments is critical since up to 70% of older adults may suffer from some sort of sleep disturbance or disorder.

Quality LED lighting with advanced control capabilities will seriously improve the health and well being of seniors, and mapping lighting to nature's circadian rhythm to better regulate sleep/wake cycles will increase resident comfort, staff productivity, facility safety while seriously reducing energy consumption.

Poor lighting is a major contributor to millions of falls experienced annually by older adults, and it's not just residents and patients at risk. Many visitors are also elderly, so it's crucial to address lighting in parking and common areas, walkways, sitting rooms and lobbies for visitor safety.

A recent study by the Midwest Lighting Institute, at facilities, where proper circadian lighting had been installed, revealed incidents of falls were reduced by 32%, anti anxiety and anti psychotic med use decreased and reports of sun downers syndrome were reduced by 38%.
